A movie producer and his artist wife from New York City are the fantasy clients for designers Barbara Ziebarth and Robbie Harbert in this pied-à-terre. San Diego is where the New Yorkers escape the fast lane of the Big Apple but they're not shy about their preference for splashes of color, natural materials and contemporary seating, lighting and accessories. Neutral beige and gray with black accents, brushed aluminum, stainless steel, slate and natural wood finishes are in keeping with their big-city sophistication. The bathroom design is by Anjum Razvi and Brenda Lanza. Mondrian and minimalism combine in the novel glass counter and cityscape-inspired cabinetry.
